

NEW SOUTH WALES

Sydney Harbour is a spectacular backdrop to a capital city which has the highest population of all the Australian capital cities. The history of the first convicts can be seen in The Rocks area adjacent to the Harbour Bridge.

NSW has a population of 6.84 million and the Great Dividing Range separates the heavily populated coastal regions with the lush farming areas of the hinterland that stretch to the outback and the mining town of Broken Hill.

Covering only 10% of Australia NSW enjoys a Mediterranean climate in the south to sub tropical in the north and the arid conditions in the far west of the state.
